

A HORSE THIEF'S STUNT.

He Tries to Sell the Animal to Its Owner.

Tampa, Fla.—Joe Hunt is a white man, but he lacks mental balance. At least he thinks he is seven kinds of a fool and that the state is doing him a kindness in appointing Jailer Jackson as his guardian.

Joe tried to sell a horse to the man he stole it from.

One night recently C. C. Aman, who runs a dairy near Gary, was wondering whether a storm would come up and sour the morning's supply of milk, when a man approached the house leading a horse which looked very familiar. The animal thought it was being invited to the house to get a free meal ticket or a written excuse to stay at home and luxuriate in the tall grass down by the meadow. It neighed, and then gave a horse laugh.

The man, who was staying close to the animal, had no idea that Aman and "Ahoss" were exchanging confidences, or he would not have proceeded as he did.

"Want to buy a horse?" he inquired. "She is all to the merr. Sound in wind, strong in legs, can do a mile in three minutes flat, only 7 years of age and not a blemish on her."

"How much do you want for the animal?" asked Aman.

"It is this way. I am a poor man and playing in hard luck. You can have her for $56."

Aman told the fellow he would have to go to town to get the money. They left the horse at Aman's home, and the pair went to Ybor City, where they called upon Justice C. L. Jackson, and one Joe Hunt was held for horse stealing.

In default of $500 bail, Hunt was sent to join the seventy-five other prisoners at the county jail, and will sweat it out there until he is sent "higher up."

It is said that Hunt was sent up recently for five years and was paroled by the state pardon board.

A SHORT COTTON CROP.

Buyers in Wagons are Now Seeking the Growers.

Gainesville, Fla., Sept. 3.—Planters all over the county are bemoaning the rains, which are greatly interfering with their crops, particularly the cotton crop.

In the largest cotton belt in the county, from Hague north, and from the Beville section west, planters state that the cotton crop has shedded on account of the rains, and that it will not be half what it should be, even under ordinary circumstances.

Not only has the crop been cut short by shedding at least one-half, but the various insects have also affected it to some extent, and what little of the staple is left will surely bring a handsome price to those who are able to hold it.

One man stated Wednesday that he had eighty acres, and that it would yield a bale to every seven acres in the entire piece, while up to the 1st of August it was one of the finest patches to be found in the county. He states he has visited a number of sections and finds them all in about the same condition.

At present they are paying $1 per hundred pounds for picking, which, owing to the wet conditions, growers claim really amounts to about $1.50, but they are compelled to do it or let the staple stay in the field.

Alachua has been paying 5 cents for the staple in the seed, and 21 cents in the lint, while it is rumored that the Tucker interest in Gainesville have been beating this price, paying 5½ cents in the seed and as high as 25 cents in the lint for some really choice cotton.

Cotton buyers in wagons are now being scattered all through the county, and it is said they are picking up everything they can get at the present prices, for it is believed that the great scarcity of the crop will compel it to go as high as 30 cents before the season is over in Florida.—Gainesville Sun.

BIG CORPORATION FORMED.

Land to Be Developed in An East Coast Section.

DeLand.—Another big naval stores corporation is to be organized in this county, with a capital stock of $50,000. Messrs. D. B. Paxton, G. A. Powell, S. B. Wilson and D. P. Smith, incorporators. The company will be known as the Rogers Naval Stores Company, taking in about 15,000 acres of the finest land in the county and as fine as there is in the State. This means many thousands of dollars of new money for Volusia county, for the naval stores products of the tract itself will sell for an immense amount in the markets.

The incorporators are all capitalists and successful business men of Volusia county, and they are to be congratulated on acquiring this fine property. The land is located between Lake Helen, Lake Ashley and New Smyrna, the Florida East Coast railway traversing it.

Col. Paxton, who has been in the woods in the naval stores business for many years, will have direct charge of the naval store plant. He has been the most successful naval stores man in this line in Florida, and the company is fortunate in securing the service of one so successful in working the pine tree. He is an exceedingly well preserved man for his age, straight as an arrow and in vigorous health, given him by his long service in a business that conduces to anyone's health and vigor.
